SERMONS FOR THE PEOPLE

Topics Discussed by Ministers From Many Pulpits.

THEY REACHED THE MASSES

Rev. A. A. Kiehle Says the Most Successful Man Is the One Who Struggles for Himself—There Is No Peace on Earth, Says Another-Bad Men Make Politics Unclean.

Following is a summary of the principal Following is a symmatry of the principal sermons recently delivered in the United States and Canada by the leading dergy-men, priests, prelates, religious teachers and professors of the Christian faith. In every instance the text has been carefully read and abbreviated:

SUCCESSFUL MEX.

Who is the man most successful in life?
It is not the man who makes the most money. He is not the most successful mail by a good deal. It is the man who has strength and who struggles for himself, has an cagie-cyte that the may see at a distance and noose up to the Lord,—Rev. A.

A. Kiehle, Frestynetan, Milwaykee.

RIGHT AND WRONG. There is no doubt that this material world is governed by a wondrous and most intending if hot nost rejentless law. All en have a conviction hat there is a right nd wrong. No man can ever bring his eif to honestly feel he ought to do the tinn e knows is wrong - Rev. F. N. Riale, Fre yterian, Cedar Raphis, Iowa.

By means of modern sociological ma-imery we are startying the masses of the world in their actual conditions. We must have these before we can know men. We are know men before we can serve them. Ve must go where they are, adapt our-cless to them and lift them into the piritual life—Rey F B Vroom, Presby-ceian, Chicago. dish life Rev 1 inu, Chicago HUNGER.

HUNGER.

The world is crowded with men hungry and eager for the very things that the Christian church stants for, sympathy, honesty, shoreity, parity, love. When the church has been moste attractive in nese things, man wall turn to it as the hungry toward a least or the thirsy toward a casting spring. Rev. 8 A. Marin, Presbyteman, Chambersburg, Pa. NOISE

The less noise in a community the higher he or distribute. Every inventor in making a machine tries to make it so that it will am quieter than the one upon the normal by his competitor. Our natures in every leparament are continually making their plea for a cessation from noise. Rev. K. Boyaton, Eaptist, Detroit.

NO PEACE ON EARTH A survey of human life would seem to maleate that the majority of men and women find little zest in life. Stand on a screet corner and stany the commenances of the midhitudes as they pass by. How little there is that its suggestive of buoyancy and werflowing gladiness, or even of settled neares—Rey C. C. Crivers, Espilist, Brooken.

FORGIVENESS.

Forgiveness a sin is are greatest boom to the human heart. Other blessings follow rightly in its train. It is the keystone of the arch hinding fogether food's covenant. It is the open more through which come trooping the blessings of owine love. Get this and you get the key to the storehouse. -Rev. George Cooper, baparst, Richmond. POLITICS.

Politics is unclean only because bad men Politics is unction only because bad men make it so and good men consent to nave it so. He is surely a bad man who is not a good citizen. A vote is a vow and a vow is a promise to toot. Why do we not carry the naw or good and right into our citizenship as well as into our homes and places of business? Hev. M. W. Stryker, Congregationalist, Grand Rapids. THE LAW OF PRAYER.

Prayer is a law of the kingdom of grace. Prayer is a law of the kingdom of grace, an orthogen-superior to seem the sing, as fixed and certain as any law of nature. There is nothing arbitrary in the law. It is ordained that we must sail upon him in the day of trouble. In the reilex infinences of prayer there is a blessing; it quiets and comforts with restful loope.—Rev. J. Il. Boggs, Presbyterian, Philadelphia.

FAITH.

FAITH.

Faith is the friend that holds constantly before the Christian's eyes, through night and through day, through sorrow and through joy, through decat and through strength, through temptations and through victory, through itemptations and through victory, through life and through death, the uncovered form of the invisible. Rev. B. M. Tapple, Methodist, New York. GREATNESS.

neather have monuments erected to their memory by their fellow men, Good men need no monuments. their lives are open

WISDOM.

The realm of knowledge is boundless. The vault of all mystery is still unbroken. There are yet continents of knowledge undiscovered; occans of wisdom untraversed; mines of intelligence in which the pick of revelation has not entered, and mountains of trath whose samit summit human toot has never trad or northi eye beheld. Rev. F. R. Short.

Methodist, Wilmington, Del.

The fact that a man has strong impolers. WISDOM.

TMPULSE

The fact that a man has strong impulses is nothing against him. It is only when the impulse losists upon going wrong that it needs correction. In its material condition life is of the wrong quality. It is external, tragmentary, incomplete, self-centered, and lacks high and joyous conception of God. A fresh start and new direction are needef—Rev. B. L. Whitman, Washington.

TRUTHFULNESS.

Disastrons failures are constantly occur-

Disastrons failures are constantly occurring among business men for lack of truthfulness. A boy who has an established reputation for unreliability in his statements cannever actieve large success. There can be no finer commondation, no holier tribute than a reputation for absolute truthfulness—Rev. W. K. Beans, Methodist, Salt Lake City.

Lake City SELFISHNESS. SELFISHNESS.

There is saich a thing as selfishness in attending the house of the Lord. One's religious experiences are a curse rather than a blessing unless one uses them to promote the kingdom of God and the brotherhood of man Be like a cloud which absorbs mosture that it may give it to the thirsty earth, not like a sponge, the sole function of which is to absorb.—Rev. J. W. Lyell, Baptist, Camden, N. J.

THE BEYOND

THE BEYOND THE BEYOND

The loved ones gone before, although often forgotten by the living, do not forget those still on earth, and when the mortal fights a battle against sin and flings it from him they rejoice in his victory and make the heavens ring with their jubilant songs. Death does not affect the mind except to intensify it, and those who have gone before sympathize with us in trouble, grieve for our sorrow and exult in our good fortune.—Rev. Dr. Dille, Methodist, San Francisco.

FISHERMEN.

FISHERMEN.

If Jesos ever seemed to show any partiality for any one class, it was for fishermen. With habits of life that divorced them from the conventionalities of the world and wedded them to the primal forces and processes of nature, they were peculiarly adapted to understand the voice of kinship when it said, "Follow me, and I will make you fishers of men," The fish is the oldest and most nearly universal symbol of Christianity—Rev. F. H.
Vrooman, Presbyterian, Chicago.
INEQUALITY. INEQUALITY. The inequalities of life make men herole

The inequalities of life base then heroic. The misorrance and distresses of mankind call out the spirit of sacrifice and lead to the development of noble character by ministrations to the suffering. To live in continued case and sustained contort is not the best condition for the development of noble qualities. The trials and struggles which come through the differing conditions of life are needed to bring out true and lasting virtue.—Rev. W. W. Wilson, Episcopalian, Chicago. ling virtue.—R lian, Chicago.

CITIZENSHIP. CITIZENSHIP.

If you would be a good citizen, fear God and keep his communiments. Do to others in every relation of life—the shop, the store, in the office, in the home, as you would have them do to you. Love your neighbor as yourself. Live soberly, righteously and godly in this evil world. Pray to the Father for a high and holy influence which shall subjuggite your passion, exalt your afflictions, clarify your relations to others and porify your feart.—Rev. G. E. Reed, Methodist, Philadelphia.

What is trait? Think not of it as of Colombia He some abstract thing, something for the philosopher to answer, something that MR, KANN'S TRIP ABROAD.

His Interesting Observations in the Cities of Germany.

Baltimore Sau. S. Kaun, of the firm of S. Kaun, Sons & Co., on South Broadway, has re-cently returned from a summer trip abroad. Mr. Kann takes a trip to Europe every summer, this hast one being his eighteenth. In former years he has visited England, France and southern Europe, but has year he visited the principal cities and summer resorts of Germany. He passed through Bedia, Hamburg, Bremen, Leipsig, Frieder-ichsruhe, Isenach Castle, Gotha, Frank-fort-on-the-Main and other places of note and interest.

Mr. Kann has found the people generally Mr. Kann has found the people generally very congenial and sociable. The cities, although he wishes to say nothing detrimental to our American cities, Mr. Kann finds much cleaner than some of our large cities. The sanitary conditions in many are excellent, and disease or centagion is little met with or feared by the inhabitants. Of course, sickness is present from other causes, but those accreting from unsanitary conditions are not frequent.

The railroad service throughout Europe does not equal ours. To the natives the service may seem very good, but when an service may seem very good, but when an American who has traveled over our wellequipped lines journeys upon them he is struck with the lack of conveniences of all kinds. Electic roads are run every-where, as here, and do not differ materially from the American styles. The bicycle is there to stay, as here. The

The bicycle is there to stay, as here. The roads are kept in the best condition possible, and to see the thousands there spinning along the tree-liked roads and avenues reminds one foreibly of home.

Many Americans are met in all parts, especially at resorts. These places are somewhat better than those on this side of the ocean. They are more visited not only by the fashionable, but also by thousands of foreign touriats, who make the roands. Consequently, much must be done to attract and to make the resorts famouss. The towns and cities are simply deserted at the first coming of the warm weather.

States is much discussed abroad, and interest is manifested on all sides as to the issue of the campaign. Every American tourist is tackled, and the questions are debated as much in some parts as in some parts here. The people have their opinions. They demonre William J. Bryan and ions. They denounce william J. Bryan and the Chicago platform. If there were no gold Democratic candidate, McKinley would be their choice, but his ideas on protection are looked upon with mistrust. But Pahner, the gold Democratic man, is just the man-one who favors gold and a low tariff. The newspapers are full of the political talk of this side, and every citizen of the United States traveling abroad may keep pretty well posted on home affairs. Not only the press discusses our ponties, but even in the household it is very frequent to near echoes of it.

Mr. Rann finds but little change in Mr. Kann finds but little change in styles for next year. In fact, his trip abroad was not so much to notice foreign styles and goods, but mainly for pleasure. All the leading firms are represented in America, and a dealer need not absolutely go on the other side to see What changes

Letter Received From Dynamiter Tynan Concerning His Arrest. Tynan Concerning His Afrest.

New York, Oct. 4.—Patrick J. Tynan, the alleged dynamiter arrested in France at the instance of the British government, in a letter to his wife, written three weeks ago, speaks hopefully of his release.

He says that the English landlord of a hotel in Boulougne, at which he was stopping, concocted the scheme for his arrest; that his room in the hotel was broken into at 4 o'clock in the morning by the landlord and two English detectives and
